

The website I've created after the course of these three assignments is very different than my expectations going into and after the first assignment as the use of javascript and particularly css has completely modified the look of the website. I think the website is good for the purpose it was intended to fulfill, however some modifications are needed before I could be able to use it as a true personal website. Even though I have hosted the website online, before it is shared with anyone I would like to modify the contact page as the messages left are never actually sent to any real database.
